Voleo Chosen to Co-Create and Launch Social Trading Platform to the European Market with Helsinki-Based OP Financial Group

December 3, 2018

VANCOUVER, CANADA, Voleo Inc. (“Voleo”, the “Company”), is pleased to announce that Voleo is the first innovator selected to join the 2018 Wealthtech Partnership Program of OP Financial Group (“OP”) – Finland’s largest financial services group and Bloomberg Markets strongest financial institution in Europe in 2015. Voleo’s mobile-first investment platform was a standout among the top 10 FinTech finalists, competing in Helsinki, Finland, during a four-day intensive Co-alignment Week, as part of OP’s initiative to expand its capabilities in the mobile digital era.

Voleo is excited to be a part of OP Financial Group’s intense and fast digital disruption in the financial sector that is continuously attracting new market entrants and speeding up product and service development. The OP Partnership Program underscores Voleo’s success in demonstrating a collaboration between humans and technology – a personalized service enriched through the introduction of social technology, data, analytics, and artificial intelligence. Voleo demonstrated that it offers the best, accessible and collaborative stock trading app to customers, irrespective of time, place and trading experience.

Voleo’s CEO, Thomas Beattie, commented, “I am thrilled for the opportunity to collaborate with OP and its program partners, Accenture, CGI and Silli, to deliver our seamless and secure solution that empowers people to invest together in a way that’s never been possible. There is a robust future demand for mobile investing technology and Voleo is already capitalizing on the massive generational wealth transfer in North America.” Mr. Beattie added, “I would like to thank OP Financial Group for being an important example of business cooperation between FinTech innovators and the financial community, and to congratulate Responsive AI and Alkanza, as the other two companies who join us in the OP Wealthtech Partnership Program. Networking with world-renowned FinTech innovators and European capital market representatives, provides insights into new technologies and markets.”

Voleo’s Executive Chairman, Mark Morabito, commented, “I congratulate the Voleo executive team members for their outstanding performance in Finland in showcasing the advantages offered by Voleo’s platform, such as consumer engagement, retention, and an entirely new channel for customer acquisition. As we join forces to bring our technology to European markets, OP Financial Group is now an important, strategic stakeholder to Voleo.”

Voleo believes in the power of collaboration and offers investors many advantages that include:

- a solid technology – developed over four years into iOS, Android and web applications;
- a credible foundation – through collaborations with Nasdaq and TMX Group, plus as a FINRA member registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission as a broker dealer across the US; and
- sizable markets – scalability into the North American and international B2B pipeline with white-label platforms: stock, crypto currency and gaming.

Voleo has entered into an agreement, dated January 29, 2018, with Logan Resources Ltd (LGR: TSX-V) with respect to a business combination as more fully described in Logan Resources Ltd's news release dated January 30, 2018. Further details regarding the timing for the closing of that transaction and the associated financing will be available prior to year end.

About OP Financial Group and the OP Wealthtech Partnership Program

For over 110 years, OP Financial Group has been building Finnish society to enhance national prosperity. As Finland's largest financial services group, OP transforms the traditional finance services provider to a customer-centric services provider with financial services at the core. The OP Financial Group has three business segments: banking, non-life insurance and wealth management. The OP Wealthtech Partnership Program is a four-month intensive period for collaboration and three Co-creation Phases with pilot workshops, advisor meetings and networking. For start-ups and scaleups, the OP Partnership Program is a great pathway to the Finnish/Nordic market with a forward-looking partner that has extensive experience.
